How the Legislative Process Applies to You

Laws passed by the Legislature have a direct impact on your life.

Laws passed by the Legislature have a direct impact on your life. They can affect the taxes you pay, the number of students in your child's classroom, and the penalty for drunken driving.

You are important. You have knowledge that can help your legislator. For instance, as a nurse, you would know what happens to people who are turned away from emergency rooms. As a police officer, you would know the toll taken by gang violence. As the parent of a developmentally disabled child, you would know that your child suffers when services aren't available.

How to Work the Process

GET INVOLVED

Your legislator needs to hear from you.

- 1) Get to know your legislator. Get to know your legislator's staff.

If you establish a relationship with your legislator, your letter or visit will have more impact than if you are a stranger.

Your legislator needs to hear from you.

- 2) Do your homework. You will be working with people who are experts. If you are proposing legislation, know what your problem is and how you might resolve it. For example, you may think the penalties for drunk driving are not strong enough. First, learn what the current laws are; identify if related legislation has been introduced recently; and find out who supports and opposes the legislation.

- 3) Find out who supports your issue and meet with others who share your common goal. Establish a unified position. Don't wait until you are meeting with your Senator to argue, for instance, over whether optimal class size is 22 or 28 students.
- 4) Know your opposition. It's important to keep in mind that not everyone shares the same view. When presenting your argument, allow for other sides to the issue. Your legislator will certainly be hearing from those that oppose your viewpoint.

Understanding the opposition can be an effective tool if or when compromise is needed.

- 5) Be prepared to negotiate. Negotiation is not a negative word. Understanding other viewpoints and where they come from can help develop counter arguments. A bill rarely becomes law in the same form it was introduced. Sometimes it is better to find the middle ground than to lose your bill.

COMMUNICATE YOUR POSITION

If you are concerned about issues, let your legislator know. Call their district office. Write a letter. Meet with your legislator, or a member of his/her staff. You have valuable information that can help him/her decide how to vote.

Here are some guidelines on how to write or e-mail your legislator:

- Address your letter properly. Elected representatives are addressed as “The Honorable” followed by their name.
- Write about one subject only.
- Be brief and to the point. A rambling letter that takes up ten pages and never quite gets to the point will not be as persuasive as one that builds a case.
- Use your own words. You are the expert. Explain what the impact will be and why your legislator should vote as you ask.

SAMPLE LETTER

- ♦ Write legibly. Your letter doesn't have to be typed.
- ♦ Be courteous. Most people, including legislators, don't respond positively to threats.
- ♦ Timing is critical. The best letter in the world won't have much impact if it arrives after your legislator has already voted on the bill.
- ♦ To send e-mail to a specific senator use the following format: senator.senator's last name@senate.ca.gov

Visit your legislator:

*Honorable Joe Smith, Chair
Senate Education Committee
State Capitol, Room 2037
Sacramento, CA 95814*

April 2, 2014

Dear Senator Smith:

I am writing to ask you to vote in support of SB 194 by Senator Blake.

SB 194 would provide support programs to help keep pregnant and parenting teens from dropping out of school. Without a high school education a teen parent cannot provide for herself and her child. She is much more likely to spend years on welfare.

I was a teen parent who graduated from high school. I am now able to support myself and my son, Jason. I wouldn't have made it without the child care and counseling that are such an important part of these programs.

Please support SB 194. Please keep me informed on this.

Sincerely,

*Susan Doe
143 City Street
Small Town, CA 00000*

♦Be prepared. Review the information you have learned about your issue.

♦Be on time for your appointment and stay within your allotted time. If you over-stay your welcome, you may have trouble getting an appointment in the future.

Ask your legislator for his/her support

- ♦ Avoid arguments. Remember, you're trying to get your legislator to see the issue from your perspective. Creating an adversary won't help.
- ♦ If you can't answer a question, say so. Let your legislator know that you will get the information and get back to him/her. This gives you an opportunity to contact him/her again and to reinforce your position. Always be honest – even if you think the truth will hurt you. Half truths and withheld information may come back to haunt you. You have two invaluable things to offer – your expertise and your integrity.

- ♦ Ask your legislator for his/her support.
- ♦ Leave a written position paper.
- ♦ Ask for advice on how to proceed.

Let your legislator know that you will get the information and get back to him or her.

GATHER SUPPORT

Your legislator has one vote. Encourage other members of your group throughout the state to contact their legislators.

Encourage people outside your group to get involved. Write a letter to the editor of your newspaper. Get on a local radio or TV talk show. Hold a workshop.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Supporting or opposing a bill usually means phoning, writing and, perhaps, visiting your legislator or his/her staff. Can you do more to help get your bill through the Legislature? You can attend hearings and testify on the bill.

Ask your legislator which policy committee your bill has been assigned to. The bill will be analyzed by a committee consultant prior to its hearing. The analysis includes current law, what the bill does, background information and raises any questions the consultant may have about the bill. Typically the analysis also includes support and opposition to the bill. Send a letter in support of your bill to the committee.

Analyses are important because committee members read them.

All committee hearings are open to the public. To find out when your bill is scheduled to be heard, check with your legislator. You can also get the information from the author's office, the committee secretary or the Daily File. The Daily File is also available on the Senate Web Site—www.senate.ca.gov. On the day of the hearing, the timing of when your bill will be considered can be influenced by several factors:

- The length of the agenda gets longer as deadlines get closer.
- Committee members usually present their bills last.

- All of an author's bills are heard consecutively.
- Some bills are controversial and require a great deal of debate.

All committee hearings are open to the public.

After a bill passes the appropriate committee(s), it goes to the full house. Floor sessions are open to the public; however, debate is limited to legislators.

The same process is followed in the other house. Opposition is more likely to surface in the second house.

to only the legislators.*

Once a bill has passed both houses, it goes to the Governor for signature. Let the Governor know your position!

IDEA

All legislation begins as an idea. Ideas can come from anyone. The process begins when someone persuades a Senator or Assembly member to author a bill.

AUTHOR

A legislator sends the idea and the language for the bill to the Legislative Counsel where it is drafted into the actual bill. The drafted bill is returned to the legislator for introduction. This is called putting the bill “across the Desk.”

FIRST READING

A bill's first reading is when the Clerk reads the bill number, the name of the author, and the descriptive title of the bill. The bill is then sent electronically to the Office of State Publishing. A bill must be in print for 30 days before it can be acted on.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS

The bill then goes to the Senate or Assembly Rules Committee where it is assigned to the appropriate policy committee for its first hearing. Bills are assigned according to subject area. During the hearing the author presents the bill, people testify in support or opposition of the bill, and the committee acts on the bill. The committee can pass the bill, pass the bill as amended, or defeat the bill. It takes a majority vote of the membership of the committee to pass a bill. Bills which require money must also be heard in fiscal committee, Senate or Assembly Appropriations.

SECOND AND THIRD READING

Bills passed by committees are recommendations to the house as a whole. When a committee passes a measure they are recommending that the body accept the proposal. Upon passage by the committee, the measure is placed on the Second reading file and is given its Second reading. It remains on the Second reading file for one legislative day and then moves to the Third reading file. When a bill is read the third time, it is explained by the author, discussed by the Members and voted on by a roll call vote. Bills which require money, or which take effect immediately, require a two-thirds vote in each house - 27 votes in the Senate and 54 in the Assembly. All other bills require simple majority votes of 21 and 41 respectively.

REPEAT PROCESS IN OTHER HOUSE

Once the bill has been approved by the house of origin it proceeds to the other house where the procedure is repeated.

RESOLUTION OF DIFFERENCES

If a bill is amended in the second house, it must go back to the house of origin for concurrence, which is agreement on the amendments. If agreement cannot be reached, the bill moves to a two house conference committee to resolve differences. Three members of the committee are from the Assembly and three are from the Senate. If a compromise is reached, the conference report is voted upon in both houses.

GOVERNOR

The bill then goes to the Governor. The Governor has three choices. He or she can sign the bill into law, allow it to become law without his or her signature or veto it. A governor's veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote in both houses. Most bills go into effect on January 1 of the next year. Urgency measures take effect immediately upon being signed by the Governor and chaptered by the Secretary of State.

CALIFORNIA CHANNEL

Legislative floor sessions and committee hearings are available through the Senate website and are carried on the California Channel week days from 9:00 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. During hectic times of the legislative calendar there are many committee hearings happening at the same time. Only one floor session or committee hearing can be aired. Conversely, when the Legislature is out of session, previous hearings or floor sessions may be shown.
